Plan your own project

1. Think about what story you might like to tell - maybe something you have seen in a storybook, or a newspaper. Make some notes about why you are interested in this story, and what its main themes are.

2. Think about how you want to tell this story - would it be great if there were some songs in it, or dance - and have a think about where you want to tell your story, maybe it's a theatre, or your school, or the middle of a forest. On a separate piece of paper draw a picture of where your story would get told.

3. Have a think about all the people you might need to tell your story, maybe it is actors, or a musician to help with the songs. Write a list of the people you need.

4. Finally, write a few sentences to persuade somebody to give you the money you need to make this project.
